Dodge Ram 1500

Big, bad, and tough. That's how I would describe the overshadowing sentiment of our American made trucks and how it has been since it's birth. The automobile industry in our great nation has become apart of the American culture since the birth of it in 1893. The industry has provided us jobs and the great freedoms of the road for over 110 years now, and the blistering growth of innovation in technology has rendered huge perks on our automobiles throughout the years. From self driving cars to vehicles that can be powered by sunlight, our automobile industry in its constant innovative flux has been nothing short of astonishing. With all of these accomplishments in mind, we can all be proud of our country for the great performances we have made in this industry. Seeing the benefits and impacts that have been noticed throughout the entire world can truly evoke sincere and prideful nationalism. But there is one peculiar thing about our automobile industry that has differentiated us from the rest of the world thus far. It is our American made trucks. Our trucks designs, technology, strength, and fuel efficiency have been in a continuous molding cycle over the past 100 years in attempts to reach absolute perfection. Even the competition between the titans of truck production is something unique to our country as these bigwig auto companies have been clashing head to head over the past 75 years to obliterate each other and dominate the market by constant inconceivable-like modernizations to their various exclusive truck types. There has been one truck that has stood out from the rest though, the classic yet state of the art Dodge Ram 1500 is and has been one of the original focal points of the American trucking culture and truly embodies what the “American made” dignity is all about.

At first glance, this classic truck just protrudes toughness and vigor. From the sleek polish on the shiny surface to the bold, intimidating grill in the front, the Dodge Ram 1500 embodies the bona fide grit of the American Spirit. This Dodge truck is the smallest in size of their Ram series, but don't let this statement fool you into thinking this powerhouse truck is this feeble and fragile truck that you buy for your kid when he turns 16. No, this unforgiving beast carries a 3.6 liter V6 engine under the hood and makes 305 horsepower and 269 feet of torque seem like a breeze. When I first turned the key to start this truck I could not help but become flushed with exhilaration and brutally intense adrenaline as I heard this engine roar. It sounded as if I had just started the engine to an F-16 fighter jet getting ready to takeoff for war. The feeling of empowerment just proceeded to run through my veins as this loud yet harmonious sounding engine roared throughout my ear drums. It was a memorable experience, one that I will never forget. The feeling of liberation as I placed my hands on the steering wheel sparked like a lightning bolt striking a tree all throughout my body. This was truly a unique experience in of itself not even including the other luxurious qualities the Ram 1500 has to offer.

The interior of the truck, to my surprise, was opulent yet still brought out the brute blue collar radiant affection which every truck should have. The interior, primarily covered by fine American made leather, can consists of many different shades and colors: ranging from black to white and even a dark shade of red. The leather is of state of the art quality and provides you with a very comfortable and enjoyable experience for a relaxing drive. The fine leather smell encompasses the entirety of the inside giving the truck another bonus to the brute and grittiness characteristics that embody the true toughness of this truck as a whole. Fitting 5 comfortably, the exceptional room for all seating in the cab makes it a great vehicle to take on a family trip as well. The vehicle comes with a state of the art infotainment system which entails a GPS system, Auxiliary functions, and bluetooth to say a few, making your daily commutes very convivial. The sound system was absolutely remarkable. For a person who cannot drive without listening to his or her favorite station or playlist, the standard sound system provides a melodious and sweet sounding quality with just the right amount of bass to make the musical utterance exemplary.

With all of these fantastic perks the 1500 possesses, you would think that there has to be some catch, some sort of negative quality to it. With most cases this deficiency that you're waiting to hear comes from the drive in and of itself. Most trucks, in comparison to small vehicles, are much more rough and choppy when running on the roads. Shockingly, this wasn't the case for the Ram. The driving experience is smooth, relaxing, and gives you the satisfaction of all the other amusing qualities without the intrusive and disturbing movement of the truck reacting to every bump and bend in the road. This is the case with most trucks most trucks now a days, driving on roads, especially old roads that are not very well taken care of can be a very bumpy and shaky drive. For some trucks it feels like you absorb the impact when you hit every single bump or crack in the road. This is what makes the Dodge Ram 1500 a diamond in the rough for their industry. This skillful feature of a perfectly crafted balance between power and comfort is one of the essential basis for why the Ram stands out. With the power and brute this truck possesses and its ability to drive relatively smoothly make it a great selection, especially for long drawn out drives. There is one critique worth discussing about the Ram 1500 though. The fuel efficiency for this vehicle is subpar. Only receiving 21 miles per the gallon in the city and 29 on the highway this truck can be somewhat of a burden if you have long commutes as it will burn a hole in your wallet with gas. But the truck's aesthetic beauty coupled with its startling superb comfort outweighs this costly deficiency as you will find out if you ever get the chance to experience one of a kind unique beasts.

The American identity signifies this discrete character of brute force, strength, grittiness, and arduous blue collar toil. We were built on this identity; this message that we have been relaying to the next generations continuously for years that we work, get our hands dirty, and fight with ruthless force if need be. This is what shaped our country to become what it has become today. The Dodge ram 1500 has beautifully signified this premise without relinquishing any aspects of comfort and style. This is what makes the vehicle such an extravagant rarity and symbolic treasure. Men and women all over, looking for a truck no matter what the purpose is: from hauling large equipment to looking for a vehicle they can show off to the guys and girls at work, or for those just looking for a family vehicle to travel in, should consider this immaculate versatile truck. Owning this truck will truly radiate joy and fascination in yourself when you find out the wonders this truck has to offer. I encourage you to see the truly authentic symbolism this truck carries, as it has made a lasting impression on me and will make a lasting impression on you too.

Review Rules:

Quick summary: The authors provides a quick summary to sum up the car as a whole. In their summaries the authors explains various features and upgrades that were not available to the previous edition of the vehicle. The authors also provides editions that if you'd like, could add on to the car. The syntax and diction of the articles as a whole is somewhat bland, but does provide some imagery when the authors describes various accessories of the car that make the vehicle stand out.

Description of interior: the authors takes an entire section of the review to just focus solely on the interior of the vehicle as well as the improvements that have been made since last year's models and the new upgrades in technology that has been displayed in the cars. They provide in depth detail for specific elements of the vehicles that would appeal to the audience and then link the elements descriptions to to the benefits that they could provide you if you so choose to buy the car.

Whats under the Hood: when the authors were describing this section of their reviews, they were a few key components that all of them had in their reviews. One of which was the horsepower of the vehicle, and if the vehicle was categorized as a sports car or a fast and powerful car in general they would further describe torque, top speed, acceleration, etc. another main section they would bring up was fuel efficiency and awards the vehicle has gotten for their fuel efficiency.

How it drives: this part of the articles would provide their opinion of how the vehicle drove and then sometimes compare and contrast it to how other similar vehicles drive. In a few cases there would be personal experience descriptions as well.

Overall personal opinion: This section would mainly be at the end or towards the end of the review and describe what they thought of the vehicle as a whole.
